

Acknowledgements

A warm and heartfelt thank you to the Culture Office (Kulturbüro) here at the university, and to the Student Parliament Budget Committee (Haushaltsausschuss). Without your generous financial support, Satura wouldn't be able to print a journal at all. We are so grateful to you for believing in us.

We would also like to thank Freya Morisse and the LWL Literaturkommission für Westfalen for their incredible invitation to include our founding editors in their recent "Walk like a [female*] poet" audiowalk in Münster. Your support and engagement with us has given us even more enthusiasm to continue our work.

Many thanks go out to Gesine Heger and everyone at the Kulturamt Münster. Thanks to their invitation, some of our Volume 5 creative writers had the chance to record their work and have it featured on Literaturline in their November 2023 release. Literaturline is a truly special way to share the creativity and culture of Münster with our community, and the world. Thank you for including us.

We also want to thank the university's American Studies team and AmerikaHaus for their generosity in having Jennifer Reimer lead a creative writing workshop for our staff and other students in July 2023. We are so glad that the creative community of our university felt nurtured and encouraged by this workshop.

Our sincerest gratitude to Anna Rapp, who has been such a great ally and ambassador for Satura over the past year. Your enthusiasm has meant the world to us. We also have to thank the Fachschaft Anglistik, who has been so thoughtful about including us as a part of the campus culture.

We are very grateful to Mareke Prahm for volunteering her time for a workshop and layout consultation for our staff. Without your expertise, the journal definitely would not look this good.

Our most important thank you is to our readers – we hope you enjoyed this volume, and we hope you'll continue to read and support Satura in the future.
