Probabilistic models in modern population genetics

Jochen Blath, TU Berlin

Mittwoch, 13. November 2013, 17:00 Uhr, M 4

Abstract:
We review some important stochastic concepts in population genetics and evolution. A particular focus of this talk will be to make a serious effort to bring modern mathematical theory together with relevant practical questions in population genetics.